

Anniston Army Depot Forecasting Event

If you know what opportunities to be preparing for, the more likely you are to submit a competitive, effective, and clean bid! Waiting until the solicitation is posted on FBO makes it much harder for your business to present a successful bid.

The Jacksonville State University PTAC office and Anniston Army Depot have partnered together to offer this event to help local small businesses be better prepared for upcoming procurement opportunities with the depot! In this workshop, Anniston Army Depot's Contracting Office will be discussing what opportunities will be available for our small businesses now and up to 12 months out.

Main focus:

- Opportunities specifically set aside for small businesses under SBA subcategories
- Upcoming Sources Sought Inquiries
- Current contracts in their last option year

To register, please respond to this email letting me know you will be attending. There is no charge to attend but I do require a reservation due to the projected large interest in the event.
