Joint Ventures in Government Contracting

Many small businesses find it hard to compete on government contracts.

In order to be competitive, small businesses may find it necessary to create joint ventures.

Andrew Watson, attorney with Maynard Cooper and Gale, PC, will discuss the special features of Formal/ Informal and Populated/Unpopulated joint ventures. In addition, they will discuss 8(a)'s, Alaska Native Corporations, and Mentor Protégé exceptions along with the advantages and disadvantages.

This workshop will help small businesses form joint ventures that will enable them to be a strong competitor in government contracting.
